Alone, but not lonely

Seeking company of others in childhood and adulthood, driven by varied expectations makes a fascinating study. To say that in the former case hardly any pre-determined rules of the game as it were marks the effort amounts to saying the obvious. The first day's scene of kids mingling disdainfully in the now-common play schools should be sufficient proof for the above postulate. Thanks to the role model of sorts, read elder members of the family in the home environment, keenly observed by the kids, factors of class, creed, tongue, ethnicity, food habits, faith, attire, educational status and so on, not to forget even complexion impact the mind as the kids progress into first boyhood or girlhood and then to adulthood. There begins the story of bias-ridden life of a majority of the land's people. Although humans, being generally gregarious, flock together, per force or otherwise, unlike in the birds, the factor of expectation for seeking company in the face of liking or disliking for myriad reasons results in groupisum.

The well-known idiom 'Birds of the Same Feather Flock Together' holds its vast meaning as long as no bird gets isolated. Persons in the place of such a bird have no option other than being alone. Cases of a person choosing to be alone either for peace while at work, particularly for literary pursuits or meditation and being forced to be alone under different compulsions of life are different kettles of fish.

Not many have the ability to be alone mentally even though they are amidst a gathering of relatives or friends or co-workers at their respective work places. To be alone, such as in cases of persons who have to be away from their loved families for various compulsions, and yet not lose enthusiasm to carry on in life is also not everyone's cup of tea. In a contrasting situation as it were, witnessing persons forced to be alone in spite of being in the company of family members under the same roof is also a feature of society. The foregoing three varied situations of persons being alone prompt one to raise a very important question: Are such persons who are prime facie alone, experiencing the trauma of feeling lonely? If the answer is 'yes,' it calls for psychologists, psychiatrists, sociologists and other knowledgeable persons to provide guidelines on mitigating that bug called loneliness.

As long as anyone who is alone for whatever reason and experiencing loneliness is not driven to depression, all is well. Given the well-known fact of depression leading to suicide in an increasing number of incidents, loss of lives what that need to be saved, it is imperative to think of a changed societal structure that being alone need not mean loneliness. An idle mind is devil's workshop. Let not devils proliferate.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

MANAGE SHANI, KEEP YAMA AWAY: At a conference on insolvency, Siby Antony, managing director and chief executive, Edelweiss Asset Reconstruction Company, invoked the Hindu gods Shani and Yama. Calling them benevolent gods who dispense justice, he labelled the current downturn, which kicked off around 2010, as a Shani period. He said businesses had to go through penance and make sacrifices during a down cycle to be able to emerge out of the rut and move into a boom period. Explaining how the new insolvency regime had provisions for both resolution and liquidation, Antony said, "If you don't manage the Shani period well, then Lord Yama takes over." —In Business Standard

Cycling without moving an inch!

Moscow: 53-year-old Pascal Pich, a legendary ultra-athlete with several endurance records to his name, is set to complete the longest, and at the same time shortest, race of his career – over 3,000 kilometres (the distance between Paris and Moscow) pedalled on a stationary bicycle.

"You have to be a little crazy to say 'I will pedal for 6 days without moving,'" Pascal Pich says about his unusual challenge. But he is managed to become one of the world's most acclaimed extreme athletes and set 10 endurance world records. So yes, cycling around 600 kms a day on a stationary bike with only 2-3 hours of sleep may sound crazy for anyone else, but not for him. Pascal Pich started his 6-day challenge on May 2, and is scheduled to finish it on May 8. His official goal was to cover 600 km a day, by pedalling 20 hours, taking short breaks to change his sweaty clothes and eat some fruit and starchy snacks.

Elderly man lives in secluded mausoleum

Hunan Province: After losing his entire family a long time ago, a Chinese doctor built his own mausoleum in the mountains of Hunan Province and has been living in it ever since, waiting for his eternal rest. 92-year-old Liang Fusheng had a beautiful family once, but he lost both his wife and children, years ago. Left with no one to take care of him in his old age and unwilling to become a burden for the villagers he had spent a lifetime looking after, the grieving doctor started building his own mausoleum in the 1990s. He paid the villagers to carry construction materials up the rocky terrain and he called it home, and spent 14 years and 260,000 yuan, building his eternal resting place. But instead of sealing it of until his time came, Liang Fusheng moved in as soon as it was finished. He has been living there on his own ever since, going to sleep in his sealed coffin every night. He doesn't want anyone to worry about burying him, and to make that very clear, he has surrounded the mausoleum with barbed wire, and with five security locks that he always keeps locked.

KDA Chairman holds Kannada implementation meet

Mysuru, May 10 (RK&DM)- Kannada Development Authority (KDA) Chairman S.G. Siddharamaiah held a review meeting with District authorities at the ZP Hall this morning and directed all district officials to implement Kannada in administration.

"Hundred percent implementation of Kannada as the administrative language has not materialised in the State owing to negligence of officials.

The KDA has written to secretaries of all departments, deputy commissioners, heads of all departments, vice-chancellors and State-owned public sector undertakings to strictly implement Kannada as the administrative language. Despite this, we are not seeing results," he said.

It may be recalled here that the State Government had ordered all the officers to implement Kannada as the administrative language saying it would initiate an action against those who failed to do so.

Kannada Development Authority Chairman S.G. Siddharamaiah is seen addressing the progress review meet at ZP Hall this morning. DC D. Randeep and other officials are also seen.

Siddharamaiah, a Kannada poet from Nelamangala in Bengaluru Rural district, took over as the KDA Chairman on Nov. 3, last year. He is also the Chairman of Karnataka State Schools Empowerment Committee.

Siddharamaiah stressed on the need for implementing Kannada in all State and Central Government offices, private establishments and IT&BT companies. He pointed out that it was public service and Kannada implementation was mandatory.

Noting that Karnataka had accepted the 3-language formula, he said that it was the duty of everyone to see to it that Kannada was accorded top priority in administration and added that English and Hindi can only be used next. He expressed regret over less use of Kannada in websites, social networks and other communication platforms.

Formation of Cauvery Experts Group: State to consult Fali S. Nariman

Bengaluru, May 10- An all-party meeting, convened by Karnataka Chief Minister Siddharamaiah to discuss the Centre's proposal of forming a 'group of experts' on distress sharing of Cauvery river water, yesterday decided to consult noted Jurist Fali S. Nariman on the issue. Nariman heads the legal team for Karnataka on Cauvery issue.

On Feb. 2, the Secretary to the Union Water Resources Ministry had communicated to the State on the Centre's proposal to constitute an experts group on Cauvery basin management and had sought its opinion on the same.

The communication stated that constitution of the group is necessitated as the final award of the Cauvery Water Disputes Tribunal does not provide a specific formula for sharing of Cauvery water between Karnataka and Tamil Nadu during distress years. It was felt that the group could address the issue.

"We have discussed the various pros and cons of the proposal of forming a group of experts and the Special Leave Petition (SLP) pending before the Supreme Court which is coming up for hearing. Based on all these factors, we have discussed (the issue)," Water Resource Minister M.B. Patil told reporters here yesterday. "It was a unanimous decision that all opinions expressed in the meeting should be placed before Nariman and take a decision," he said.

The all-party meeting was attended by State Home Minister Dr. G. Parameshwara, Law Minister T.B. Jayachandra, Opposition BJP Leader Jagadish Shettar and JD(S) leaders Basavaraj Horatti and H.D. Revanna, among others.

Patil said that he is planning to meet Nariman next week. Siddharamaiah said he will also consult former Prime Minister H.D. Deve Gowda on the issue.

Advocate General Madhusudhan Naik is said to have told the meeting that the State should give its go ahead for constitution of the group.

According to the proposal of the Water Resources Ministry, the group will identify and document key factors like water availability and demands in various scenarios and also suggest a permanent institutional mechanism for resolving the inter-State water dispute between Karnataka and Tamil Nadu.

Shettar told reporters that the advantages and disadvantages of constituting the group of experts should be looked into, in consultation with Nariman. He said, "We have given the Chief Minister the authority to consult Nariman and a legal team and to take a decision based on their opinion."

Asked about the present water situation in the Cauvery river basin, Minister Patil said, "As we had said, we have water till June 30. We will be able to give water to Bengaluru, Mysuru and nearby villages and towns till June 30."

VOICE OF THE READER

Restore the beauty of this heritage building

Sir,

During my recent visit to city Railway Station I saw several hoardings of different establishments or companies in front of the historical Railway building (see photo).

Railways may be earning money through these hoardings but it has taken away the beauty of the heritage building. At least, the number of hoardings should have been restricted not to affect the grandeur of the building.

Otherwise also there is no need to keep the same hoarding for every 10 feet or so. If required, these may be shifted inside of the Station and may be fixed in the platforms in hanging mode. Concerned officials are requested to restore the beauty by removing these obstructions.

Discontent with Democracy and the AAP experiment...

By Dr. R. Balasubramaniam

Towards the end of December 2014, a lot of people asked me if I would be joining Arvind Kejriwal and the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP). Having been a key person in Karnataka in the crusade against corruption that Anna Hazare had led, many had presumed that I would also automatically gravitate towards this newly-formed political front.

When Arvind had met me then in Bengaluru, he did talk about the need for people like me to be in active politics. Yogendra Yadav and Prashanth Bhushan too had tried to impress on me the need to be actively engaged in AAP and contribute to fine tuning its ideological moorings. A few newspapers had also announced that I would be their candidate for the Parliament elections that was held in May 2014.

It was around this time that I had posed a few questions to Arvind and others about the political ideology of AAP; the intent of having structures that demonstrated inner party democracy; what was the governance model that he was having in mind and what economic theory of development that he subscribed to. Though I did not get satisfactory answers, I decided to respectfully observe the growth and trajectory of AAP as I believed that this could possibly be the much-needed paradigm shift in the Indian political scene.

It was also the time that I decided not to associate with any political party but to closely observe how the AAP's existence would affect the quality of all the other political parties. I must confess that I was hopeful that this experiment of the Aam Aadmi Party will bode well not just for Indian politics but for the nation's progress as well.

It is interesting to understand the underpinnings of what led to the mercurial growth of Arvind Kejriwal and the AAP. What we saw from 2010 to 2014 in India was a collective expression of the restlessness of the Indian masses. There was such a deep distrust of the political setup and the common man was desperately looking for a messiah. Over the previous several decades, especially after 1991, growth opportunities and investments in infrastructure, education and health care seemed to benefit only one particular class of people. The effects of distributional consequences were beginning to be seen and the social and economic inequities were becoming more and more stark. State expenditures on health and education were being inconsistent and the private sector was encouraged to consider providing public services for a price. Cutting of the social benefits was hurting the poor the most and International trade, market policies and technological change over the last many years were resulting in hurting the same people again and again. There was widespread discontent with democracy and the electoral process due to rampant perversion of the system, use of money and muscle power and using identity politics for electoral benefit.

It was in this scenario, Arvind and company entered and convinced the Nation that corruption was the cause of all their sufferings and that he could provide them with a viable and a fresh alternative. A nation hungry for change lapped up everything Arvind said and he soon became the poster boy of not just AAP, but also of an emerging new political paradigm.

Arvind soon learnt that he could build political capital for AAP and deal with the pervasive cynicism by constantly pulling down the establishment and everyone associated with it. Little did he realise that it would soon become counter-productive once he became the establishment himself. Even after being swept into power in Delhi, he continued to denigrate expertise, selectively use 'filtered' information and kept projecting himself as the helpless victim of the 'establishment', which he equated with the Central Government led by Modi.

Today he and his party are going through a reality check. The more he and AAP have become like others, he needs to understand that the people will treat him with the same disdain and distrust that they have treated all political parties and politicians till date. Inner party democracy cannot just be a sledge hammer with which you beat up others. One needs to role model it within AAP and then bandy it around. He needs to not only encourage people to speak up, but he needs to learn to listen with patience, humility and serious intent.

Respect for colleagues cannot be driven by political expediency and he needs to demonstrate authentic leadership now. His government's policies need to be administratively feasible, politically practical and financially viable. No longer will the people tolerate his constant blaming of 'others' and AAP as a party has to learn that the metrics of performance in a democracy like India is electoral success. Decisions have to be informed by the trade-offs that such decisions entail and he needs to prepare himself and his party to learn to absorb them.

Democracy was questioned and in helping vote the AAP to power in Delhi in 2015, the people saw a redeeming solution. But today, one cannot fault the common man of Delhi for feeling let down and cheated. And they responded in the only way that they could — not give them their trust as demonstrated in the recently held MCD elections.

The AAP has to put its house in order not just to save their fledgling party but to save this experiment in Indian Democracy. People are now no longer dissatisfied with AAP alone but see a justification in their discontent with democracy itself. The debate should not be whether elections are rigged but should be about whether the political process itself continues to be rigged. If the evident skew in favour of the rich, the mighty and the powerful had to change, we needed this political experiment to have succeeded.

Questions that still lie unanswered are the challenges of Affluence Vs Influence; Public opinion Vs Public policy; Interests Vs Positions and Competence Vs Values. And one had hoped that the emergence of AAP on the political spectrum in India would have kick-started the debate on finding the answers for these vexatious questions and Indian Democracy would become healthy and vibrant.

Entry to Chamundi Hill after 10 pm banned

Mysuru, May 10 (MTY&NNN)- The 'night rides and drives,' to the Chamundi Hill could be a thing of the past, once the District Administration enforces the ban of vehicles and people atop the hill after 10 pm. The entry would be barred by installing gates at the entrance to the Hill.

Chamundi Hill that forms the beautiful backdrop to Mysuru and lends its character to the city has always welcomed pilgrims and tourists in lakhs over the years. The drive on the road leading to the Chamundeshwari temple atop the hill is also very scenic, especially in the night when the whole city looks like a fairyland from the top of the Hill.

However, of late, the serenity of the hill is being spoiled as many unruly elements and misguided youth are spoiling the sanctity of the Hill. In the guise of 'night rides and drives,' couples and group of youngsters drive up the hill in the middle of the night and indulge in drinking, dancing and other unlawful activities.

Complaints started pouring from the discerning public about the revelry that the youngsters indulged in thus destroying the peace and calmness at the hill. In fact, two years ago the entry was restricted to the hill after 11 pm. However, of late the number of people moving around even at midnight had increased.

To stop the illegal activities, the police had increased the patrolling. Nevertheless, the young couples in the guise of devotees would hoodwink the Police and involve in unlawful activities.

Hence, the District Administration has decided to install the gates and the work would commence shortly.

Installation of gates

There are three main roads that lead to Chamundi Hill. The one road that leads to the hill is from Tavarekatte, the one next to it leading to the Nandi Bull and the third one is from Uttanhalli Road, the southern side of the hill. The gates would be installed at the entrance of all the three roads. Except the residents on the Hill, the entry is restricted to all others. The gates will be locked after 10 pm and one security personnel will be posted at each of the entrance gate.

CC Cameras

Closed circuit cameras would be installed at the gate entrances to catch the culprits who move around after the entry hours violating the rules. Apart from the three roads, CCTV cameras would be installed at the entrance of the 1,000 steps, by the temple administration.

DC approves

The Deputy Commissioner has approved the proposal of the Temple Administration to install the gates and the CCTV cameras and asked the authorities to preserve the sanctity of the temple and the hill.

DC Randeep who held a meeting with the temple authorities regarding the development works atop the Hill, asked the Temple's Executive Officer K.M. Prasad to complete the works at the earliest.

Hill residents not affected

The residents of the Chamundi Hill will not be inconvenienced because of the measures being taken by the Temple Administration and the District Administration to restrict the entry of vehicles and people after 10 pm to the Hill. The inhabitants of the Hill, fed up with the illegal activities and the disturbance created due to drinking, dancing and other unlawful activities had complained to the administration to put a halt to such activities. In the light of the ban of entry of private vehicles during Aashada Fridays and Varadanthi Mahotsava, directions have been given to the Panchayat Development Officer to provide voters list of the residents to the Police. Passes would be issued to each household owning a car or scooter. These passes could be used throughout the year. If there is an emergency in the middle of the night, the gates would be opened to such pass holders.

Krishnamurthy, Dean of MMC&RI and others seen during the inspection at the K.R. Hospital premises this morning.

Mysuru, May 10 (RKB&NNN)- Chief Minister Siddharamaiah has instructed V. Manjula, Additional Chief Secretary, Health and Family Welfare (Medical Education) to inspect the renovation of the K.R. KDA Chairman holds Kannada implementation meet

He asked Deputy Commissioner D. Randeep why there was less use of Kannada in District Administration website, to which the DC replied that the website maintenance was the job of National Information Centre (NIC) who has to update Kannada software.

Stating that the District Administration was using Kannada to the maximum extent possible, Randeep highlighted that the Nudi software was being used in Government offices and he has plans to make full use of Kannada in Government websites in about two months, by using the latest technology.

Siddharamaiah directed the Zilla Kannada Jagruti Samiti, which is headed by the DC, to meet regularly and make sure that Kannada development is discussed at all KDP meetings.

Continuing, Siddharamaiah said that he had received inputs that there were less than 50 per cent Kannadigas employed in manufacturing industries, IT&BT companies and other business and trade establishments. He directed DIC Joint Director Ramakrishne Gowda to see to it that 100 percent Kannadigas are appointed to Group C&D posts and at least 40 per cent to Group A&B posts in industries and other non-Government establishments, when they came to the Industries Department for licence renewal or any other certificates.

He further said that he had received many complaints on the lack Kannada usage in University of Mysore and CFTRI. Taking Irrigation Department officials to task for placing English advertisements in Kannada newspapers, he said that action must be taken against the Department officials who had skipped the meeting.

Earlier, Kannada Development Authority (KDA) Secretary Dr. Muralidhar explained the objectives of KDA and its initiatives. KDA nominated members Sa. Ra. Sudarshan, Maddikere Gopal, Mylahalli Revanna and Kannada Pramoda, District Kannada Sahitya Parishat Mysuru President Dr. Y.D. Rajanna, Kannada and Culture Assistant Director H. Chennappa and other officials were present during the meeting.

Couple arrested

Mangalagowri gave birth to a female child on Monday (May 8). As it was an illicit relationship, the couple decided to get rid of the child fearing social stigma.

The couple then took the child to a farm at Hediyala and smothered it with a cloth. After killing the child, the couple dumped the body nearby and returned to their respective houses. The child's body was spotted by some passers-by yesterday and the Police were alerted.

Based on the villagers' statements that Mangalagowri was pregnant and had delivered a baby, Nanjangud Circle Inspector Shivamurthy arrested her and Basavaraju who confessed to the crime. Hullahalli Police have registered a case. The child's body was brought to MMC&RI for post-mortem.

Newly-built St. Sebastian Church inaugurated in Kushalnagar

The majestic St. Sebastian Church in Kushalnagar that was recently inaugurated.

Kushalnagar, May 10 (US)- The newly-constructed St. Sebastian Church was recently inaugurated and blessed by Bishop of Mysuru Most Rev. Dr. K.A. William in the presence of Bishop Emeritus Thomas Antony Vazhapilly, numerous Catholic priests and devotees.

Built at a cost of Rs. 3 crore, incorporating Portuguese and French architecture, the Church construction lasted for 7 years with contribution from the State Government, elected representatives, devotees and many others from different faiths.

The Roman Catholic Church has been designed by Benny from Kerala and the initial outlay of Rs. 2.5 crore got escalated to Rs. 3 crore by the time it was completed. The Church is constructed on a 1.5 acre-plot atop a hill. With a floor space of 7,500 sq. ft. housing the prayer hall, about 1,000 people can offer prayer at a time including 100 in the balcony.

The alloy made 350-kg church bell has been designed in such a way that its echo can resonate up to a distance of 2 kilometres.

Statues of Infant Jesus at the centre, St.Sebastian and Mother Mary adorn the entrance. Well-maintained lawns, ramp for disabled and elderly and a huge parking lot are among the important features.

The interiors of St. Sebastian Church.

The idol of Jesus Christ is mounted on a 10 ft. tall, 5ft. wide teak wood cross which is placed on a gold-plated pedestal measuring 3 ft. in height and 2ft. wide at the centre behind the altar table. The wood carving works have been made by experts in Thrissur, Kerala and have been assembled in the church.

The State Government has provided a fund of Rs. 40 lakh for the construction of the church with financial support from local MLA and MP Fund. About 1,200 devotees too have contributed their mite.

A panoramic view of Kushalnagar can be had from the top most point of the church.

A special mass was conducted under the guidance of Rev. Dr. Thomas Antony Vazhapilly. Parish Priest Fr. Michael Marie, Fr. C. Rayappa, MLA M.P. Appachu Ranjan, MLC Veena Achaiah, Municipal President M.M. Charan, BCM Officer K.V. Suresh, Fathima Convent Head Mistress Supriya Jonita, Church Construction Committee Secretary Krejwal Coats, PRO Philip Vas and others were present.

Plea to name a road after freedom fighter B. Narayanswamy

Freedom fighter B. Narayanswamy (extreme left with a Gandhi cap) seen with the then Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, who inaugurated a food processing plant at CFTRI, Mysore.

Mysuru, May 10 (NNN)- There are a few people who in spite of their contributions to the city are forgotten and ignored. One such person is B. Narayanswamy (1901-1983), a freedom fighter, a true Statesman, erstwhile Congressman who lived with honesty, dignity and self-respect throughout his life.

He served the city of Mysore in various capacities. He was an MLA (18.6.1952 to 31.3. 1957), CITB Chairman (11.5.1962 to 17.1.1966), Municipal President (23.1.1958 to 31.12.1958), Akashavani Director (1948 to 1950) and above all he was a popular advocate.

During his regime as CITB Chairman (presently known as MUDA), Saraswathipuram, one of the most popular localities in Mysore city, was formed. In fact, during his period as Chairman he invited people from all walks of life to purchase sites in Saraswathipuram. Some people hesitated because it was like a forest during that time. Of course, people are repenting now for not purchasing the site in that locality. Those who got sites in Saraswathipuram feel that they are very fortunate and some of them even have gone to the extent of saying it is because of him they are lighting the lamp in their houses.

As a true Gandhian, he did not make or keep anything to his kith and kin. He had never aspired for any post or position in his life. When Kengal Hanumanthaiah (former Chief Minister of Karnataka) offered him the Ministerial berth, he declined the offer outright. He told him that he was contented with what he had and he could serve the people even without holding any portfolio.

In an another incident when a contractor came to ask for permission to renovate his house that was in a dilapidated condition, he became very angry at him and told him not to venture again to enter his house with the intention of any favour from him. Until he died, the house was in a pathetic condition and later on it was renovated by his grandchildren.

During his time, Narayanswamy was in close association with a number of politicians like S. Nijalingappa, M. N. Jois, Kadidal Manjappa, H. C. Dasappa, Sahukar Chennaiah, Veerendra Patil, B.N. Kengegowda and H. Kempe Gowda. Today one can rarely find a politician of his stature and calibre.

According to Arunkumar Doreswamy, one of his grandsons, there is not a single road, circle or Statue in Narayanswamy's name. In fact, the family members had approached the local MLAs and Corporators many times but in vain. They gave only false assurances that it will be done but till today it has not happened.

Even the Mysore City Corporation (MCC) Council sometime ago had passed a resolution to name the Circle connecting the Road from Ballal Circle to Kantharaj Urs Road (near the under bridge) but it has not materialised yet.

The family members have once again appealed to Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, the local MLAs, the MP and the Corporators to see that at least now a road is named after Narayanswamy as a mark of respect and remembrance to this personality who lived for Gandhian principles and values all through his life. Hope this dream of the erstwhile Congressman's family members will be fulfilled by next month when they observe his death anniversary on June 10.

Lions to clash against Daredevils

Kanpur, May 10- The Gujarat Lions and Delhi Daredevils will clash in Match 50 of IPL 2017 at the Green Park in Kanpur later today.

Both teams cannot make the playoffs; even if the Gujarat Lions win both their remaining matches, they can only get to 12 points, while if DD win their remaining three fixtures, they can still only get to 14 points which will not make the cut.

While the Gujarat Lions will be without the services of the injured Brendon McCullum, the Delhi Daredevils will miss two of their key players in this contest; Kagiso Rabada and Chris Morris have parted ways with the DD squad to answer their national team's commitments. Angelo Mathews will also not be available to the Daredevils; the Sri Lankan captain has joined up with his national team in preparation for their forthcoming international assignment.

Among the Gujarat Lions batsmen, one of Suresh Raina or Aaron Finch will need to get a big score. Sanju Samson, Delhi Daredevils' highest run-getter this season, will be expected to make a significant addition to add to his aggregate of 374 runs.

On the bowling front, keep an eye on the Gujarat Lions' Basil Thampi, who has been impressive in his debut season. Among the Delhi Daredevils bowlers, keep an eye on Zaheer Khan and Mohammed Shami, for their fitness and their rhythm.

Soothing performances

By M.L. Krishnaswami

On the eleventh, the seventh concert was an instrumental ensemble with artistes Vid. H.K. Venkatram (violin), Vid. Ravikiran (flute), Vid. Ashwin Anand (veena), Vid. Anantha Krishana Sharma (mridanga) and Vid. Sunag (khanjira). There were ten numbers in the whole concert and the main point was the perfect harmony among the five artistes, all veterans in their own chosen instruments and the resulting output was soothing to the ear and heart. Some of the ragas selected were Abhogi, Kuntalavarali, Brindavana Saranga, Karaharapriya, all beautiful ragas which lend themselves eminently to both raga bhava (soul of the number) and Layajnana (Rhythmic beauty) and the resultant output in all the numbers was very well appreciated by the crowd of connoisseurs who regularly throng the auditorium to listen to divine music to soothe their heart and mind. Lord Krishna (Nee, Rama also) says "Yatra Madbhakthaha Gayanthi, Tatra Tistami Narada" meaning, "I am present there where my devotees sing in my praise."

On 12th, the eighth concert in the series the main artiste was by Vid. Ramakrishna Murthy (vocal) accompanied by Vidu. H.M. Smitha (violin), Vid. K.V. Prasad (mridanga) and Vid. S. Ramanujan (ghata).

Ramakrishnamurthy is an young Vidwan and over a period of three to four years, he has nearly hoisted himself to the top table in the field of Karnatak Music vocalists, by sheer dint of hardwork and diligence. He has a sonorous voice which lends itself to all octaves and his own youthful and humble looking personality immediately lend itself to the endearment of the listeners.

He started his concert with a number in 'Nata.' This was followed by 'Ma Janaki Shatha...' for which a detailed swaraprasthara followed. The main item, in a way, was in raga 'Varali', 'Kanakanaruchira,' one of the Five Jewels, (Pancha Ratna) of kritis composed by Saint Thyagaraja.

The accompanists lent dutiful support to the main artist. Vid. K.V. Prasad and Vid. Ramanujan stole the show in their own way.

Vid. Prasad is a veteran of over four decades and has accompanied the legendary MS many times in her concerts. After the long bravado in 'Varali,' a Vasudevacharyakriti 'Brovabarama Raghurama' in Raga 'Bahudari' followed and well received.

Raga 'Kapi' was chosen for elaborate delineation and Ramakrishna Murthy, outshone himself in his beautiful presentation of this number with our own Vidu. H.M. Smitha, a niece and disciple of Vid. H.K. Narasimhamurthy, on violin rendering delightful support the main artiste. Vid. Murthy chose 'Sri Rama Jayarama Lokabhirama' for the pallavi and strode into a string of beautiful ragas like 'Neelambari' and 'Kanada.' The ensemble was a real treat indeed. He also chose a few Kannada numbers like 'Matada Baradeno' in 'Kamach' and elegantly strode into 'Eppo Varuvaro' in 'Jonpuri' popularised by the great 'MS' in her film voyage in 'Sakuntala' with 'GNB' playing Dushyantha (old timers like me continue to revel in this great treat).

On the 13th, the ninth concert the Sabha had organised was a rare musical treat by Vid. Prince Rama Verma, a descendant of the great Swathithirunal Maharaja of the then Travancore State, who was also a great composer of Karnatak music. The prince in his fifties came like a commoner in white dhoti and shirt and sang for a full three hours with aplomb and dedication. He has developed his own style of music and is a disciple of Vid. Balamurali Krishna. Balamurali's special and delightful antics on the stage were particularly noticeable in the Prince's concert.

The pleasing mannerisms of Balamurali on the stage were evident as the Prince proved himself to be a noted disciple of the great master. The Prince was accompanied on violin by Vid. Ramanujacharyalu, on mridanga by our own Vid. B. Ravishankar and morching by Vid. Rajam.

The concert started with 'Ninnu Kori' in Mohana, followed by 'Gajavadana Beduve' in Gambhiranataboth. 'Kamavardhini' followed with a beautiful neraval in 'Kapi Varidhi Dhantuno'. Then came 'Bhajare Manasa Sri Raghu Veeram' followed by a 'Purandaradasa' number 'Naneke Badavanu' in Behag. In quick succession to this, he sang 'Shara Shara Samare' in kuntalavarali. A detailed alapana in 'Simhendra Madhyama' followed with all the nuances of the raga receiving equal treatment. The number was 'Rama rama' and in 'Muni Manasa,' swaraprasthara was taken up and the legendary Balamurali's playful antics of raising the voice once and immediately toning down with appropriate hand-signalling, were very evident in the artiste's rendering of this. A dutiful and reverential 'Sishya' indeed is the Prince vis-à-vis the Master. This was immediately followed by a Telugu number, a Balamurali Kriti, 'Ethani Manasha Janmamu.' This was a philosophical treat. A brisk 'Ramakrishnaru Manege Bandaru Baagilu Tege' a Kannada number was well-rendered.

The programme ended with a Swathi Thirunal number as a matter of tribute to the great composer. The accompanists, our own Tumkur Ravishankar and S. Manjunath gave solid support to the Prince in his musical voyage.

This was real treat to the connoisseurs and the Sabha and more so, Himamshu deserves thanks for arranging this concert by Prince Rama Verma. This may be his maiden visit to Mysuru and the music lovers of city will welcome the Prince more often.

The 10th concert in the series was a violin-duet by well-known Vid. T.K.V. Ramanujacharyulu and Vidu. Charulatha Ramanujam. They were accompanied on mridanga by Tumkur B. Ravishankar and on ghata by Vid. S. Manjunath.

This was a delightful classical violin programme, very well-appreciated by the Rasikas. Both the artistes are senior level ones and strictly adhering themselves to pure classical mode, gave out a wonderful programme. Their bowings on the strings matched so well that the resultant output came as a solo programme. The accompanists, mainly Ravishankar deserves praise for his handling of mridanga. The musical series of the ten-day long programme concluded with this. Sri Ramabhyudaya Sabha richly deserves the congratulations from the music lover fraternity of Mysuru for successfully organising this long programme of 'Top Class' classical music.

This year, the Sabha had added a dazzling 'Ramayana Darshana' dance programme very ably conducted by our own Dr. Vasundara Doraswamy and team. For this, the Sabha had put up an enlarged stage and had made good lighting arrangements. Unfortunately, I had to miss this beautiful programme due to a family function at a different city. I am poorer by that.
